Multiple Choice Tests. 1. Read every question and possible answers slowly and completely before beginning to think about what the correct answer is. It is easy to distract yourself from reading the question, and that makes it easy to miss things like "pick two" or other instructions. 2. Don't be afraid to change an answer, but be certain if you do.

To master multiple choice questions, understand how professors create them. First, they select an important concept to test your understanding. Next, they generate the correct answer. Finally, they generate distractors to test how well you understand concept. Distractors are choices that can look, sound or mean about the same thing as the correct answer, but are incorrect because they are either: too specific (include extreme modifiers such as always, never) too general (they leave out a ...
